FALL MEETING OF HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The NC Conference Historical Society will be meeting at St. James United Methodist Church in Greenville, NC, Saturday, October 7th at 10:30 the meeting will begin. Everyone who is interested in the history of our Conference is invited to come. See the details below.

"On February 26, 1952 a meeting of interested persons was held at the Rotary Club Building" [in Greenville]. "At this meeting the decision was made to form a new suburban Methodist church. In May, Rev. E. L. Earnhardt, Jr. was sent by the Conference to help organize this church". Creative fund raising to help with the building of the church included an Easter time production of the Passion play. "The play was given at East Carolina College for four nights and played for hundreds." In later years a chapel was built with a large stained glass "Methodist Window". Kenneth Gray Hite says in a booklet published by the church in 1974, "St. James looks forward to establishing in Greenville a spiritual body of Christian believers, whose zeal and record of accomplishment will bear favorable comparison to any church in this locality, and it looks forward to expanded services in enlarged quarters in the near future, all dedicated to the glory of God." Come to the meeting October 7th, and to hear more about this promising story of St. James United Methodist Church.

St. James United Methodist Church was a Ten Dollar club church started under the Garber administration. Bishop Garber was also instrumental in the establishment of the Methodist Retirement Homes. Today, The United Methodist Retirement Homes is comprised of four continuing care retirement communities and one affordable housing community. Cypress Glen is one of those communities. This year UMHR is celebrating 50 years of ministry. After the meeting of the NC Conference Historical Society the group will be going to Cypress Glen for a brief tour and lunch. Rev. W. Arthur Warren, Jr., president, welcomed the Society to Benson UMC. He announced that the North Carolina Conference Commission on Archives & History would meet at the church after lunch. The agenda was to have our business session, a sharing of the history of Benson UMC, and a look at the Archives Room and a display that is set up in the Fellowship Hall. After lunch, we were to go down to the Benson Museum. Mrs. Helen Smith would be there for us at 1:00 p.m. The museum is open on Wednesday afternoons.

The devotional was given by Arthur. He used The Upper Room devotional for April 1, 2006. The scripture was Psalm 27:10.

Rev. Para Drake (Newbegun UMC, Elizabeth City District) was nominated for president. Vivian Mitchell moved that Para Drake be elected as president of the NC Conference Historical Society. The motion was accepted and Para Drake was elected. Vice-President Jane Greeson and Secretary/Treasurer John Mitchell will continue to serve in their offices.

The location of the next meeting of the NCCHS and the NCCCAH will be discussed at the afternoon Archives & History meeting. Arthur asked if we had any suggestions for a location for the October meeting. Beverley Pierpoint offered the William Randolph Few Chapel at Croasdaile Village Retirement Home in Durham, NC. (Beverley works in the Corporate Office there and is a member of A&H.) The date of the meeting has not been set yet. The Methodist Retirement Homes were 50 years old last year.

The minutes of the October 1, 2005 meeting were read by the secretary. (Vol. 3, February, 2006, of the Saddlebags newsletter was bulk-mailed. The mailing disappeared and the US Postal Service has not found out what happened to it. Saddlebags is available through the NC Conference Archives web site). Laura Bailey, the editor, arrived with copies of Saddlebags. Laura is our staff representative from the Methodist Building to the commission and the society and also administers the Media Center. The minutes were approved on a motion by Rev. James Caviness.

Saddlebags included information on the meeting in June of the Southeastern Jurisdiction Historical Society at the Duke University Divinity School and a registration form for the meeting. This year’s meeting is being hosted by the NC Conference Commission on Archives & History and the NC Conference Historical Society. The theme for the meeting is “The Gather Era”, February 1951 to July 1968. We need people to greet the attendees and to pick up people from the airport. Laura said that if you made a reservation to stay at the Millenium Hotel during the SEJHS meeting, you need to let them know this a Duke Divinity School event in order to get the $75 rate for 1-2 people. Additional people in a room would cost about $15 each.

There was also an article about the destruction of the Gulfside Assembly at Waveland, MS by Hurricane Katrina. Gulfside Assembly was the old Central Jurisdiction of Black churches’ equivalent of the Southeast Jurisdiction’s Lake Junaluska Assembly. An Advance Special, #76133 Gulfside Assembly was the old Central Jurisdiction of Black churches’ equivalent of the Southeast Jurisdiction’s Lake Junaluska Assembly. An Advance Special, #76133 Gulfside Assembly Program or #760235 Gulfside Assembly Capital Fund has been set up for donations to help rebuild Gulfside. Donations may also be sent to: SEJ Gulfside Assembly Fund, P.O. Box 67, Lake Junaluska, NC 28745.

Rev. Dr. Thomas A. Collins, first president of North Carolina Wesleyan College, was to be our host for the Duke Divinity School event in order to get the $75 rate for 1-2 people. Additional people in a room would cost about $15 each.

The General Commission on Archives and History announces the recipients of two of its award programs. Receiving the 2006 Asian, Black, Hispanic and Native American United Methodist History Research Grant are Jodi Skipper, a doctoral candidate in the Department of Anthropology at the University of Texas, Austin, for her historical research at St. Paul Church, Dallas; and Andrew Witmer, a doctoral candidate at the University of Virginia writing on “God’s Interpreters: African Missions and the Social Construction of Race in America, 1865-1910”. The John Harrison Ness Award recognizes two outstanding papers written by M.Div. candidates. This year’s winners are Jessie Shuman Larkins for the paper, “John Wesley Among the Colonies: Wesleyan Theology in the Face of the American Revolution” and J.E. McConnell, II, for the paper, “The Character of Methodism in George Eliot’s Adam Bede”. Both recipients of the Ness Award are students at Duke Divinity School and were students of Dr. Richard Heitzenrater. While the dollar amounts are modest, these awards are a way for the General Commission to encourage students and scholars to research and write on Methodist history. Good work is being done and we are pleased to recognize such accomplishments. Information for all awards and grants can be found on the GCAH web site at http://www.gcah.org/AwardsGrants/GrantsLinks.htm.

LEGACY & HISTORY FEATURED IN TWO SPECIAL PROGRAMS AT ANNUAL CONFERENCE

“The celebration of the historic 1956 General Conference decision to confer full clergy rights upon women captured the attention of the [2006] NC Annual Conference with its evocative theme and costumed actors. The highlight of the presentation was the sight of more than 100 clergywomen being led in procession by liturgical dancer, Suzanne Dornsmith. The overwhelming numbers of women in pastoral and extension ministry necessitated the singing of “A Charge to Keep I Have” twice!”

“Guide My Feet — Journey of Women into Ordained Ministry” featured vignette conversations between historic figures in our history. John Wesley spoke with his mother, Susannah, and Sarah Crosby, the first woman to receive “permission” to exhort — and without the use of scripture. In the early 1800’s Jarena Lee twice implored African Methodist Episcopal Bishop Richard Allen to ordain her; he refused, citing that “our Discipline has no provision for women preachers.”

Anna Oliver and Anna Howard Shaw each took different routes in their call to ministry: Anna Oliver did not leave the Methodist Episcopal Church while Anna Howard Shaw accepted the invitation of the Methodist Protestant Church to be fully ordained. Both women preached and taught, however. Georgia Harkness, known as a theologian, was encouraged by mentor Henry Brightman and became a strong-voiced laywoman for the cause of women’s full clergy rights. She was present when the decision was made.

Our record of women’s ordained ministry in the North Carolina Conference gives us a deeper understanding of ourselves. In 1968, Lynn Testerman Wall was ordained as Deacon by Bishop Garber rather than as Elder because she was a woman and married to a clergyman. In 1976, Gladys Williford and Helen Crotwell were ordained as the first Elders in Full Connection.

2006 is also the 50th anniversary of the granting of full clergy rights for women by the 1956 General Conference. Rev. Patricia Thompson, a pastor in the New England Conference “on loan” to the Troy Conference and the president of the Historical Society of the United Methodist Church, will be our presenter on the history of United Methodist women’s ministry and ordination at the Thursday night banquet.

Pat recently published Courageous Past, Bold Future—The Journey Toward Full Clergy Rights for Women in the United Methodist Church.

The Thursday bus tour will stop at Croasdaile Village for a presentation on the history of the Methodist Retirement Homes, have lunch and a program on the history of Wesleyan College. A drive-through is planned for Methodist College and for the Wesley Pines retirement home in Lumberton.

Richard Heitzenrater, Professor of Church History and Wesley Studies at Duke Divinity School will be the keynote speaker. Dick is the person who broke the code that John Wesley used in his journals.

Welcome to the commission meeting in the afternoon. All meals at Duke University must be catered by the university.

Paul Neff Garber was Dean of the Duke Divinity School when he was elected bishop in 1944. He was appointed to the Geneva Area (Europe), but started his work in North Africa before World War II ended in Europe. When the bishop of the Area (Virginia and North Carolina Conferences) died, Bishop Garber was appointed as our bishop in February, 1951. He became the first bishop of the Raleigh Area in 1960 when the North Carolina Conference was given its own bishop. During Bishop Garber’s tenure “Youth Caravans” were sent to help with the rebuilding of Europe after World War II, two (instead of the original one) colleges were started in 1956 while keeping Louisburg College open. “No Silent Pulpit” during Lent led to the lay speaker program, four camps were set up, and the $10 Club was created to raise money to help start new churches. In 1968 General Conference voted to merge the Central Jurisdiction, almost all of the Black Methodist churches in the United States, into the five geographical jurisdictions. At Bishop Garber’s last annual conference as Presiding Bishop, the NC Conference voted to merge immediately instead of delaying the merger until as late as 1972 when it had to be completed. This was the same year the Methodist Church and the Evangelical United Brethren Church merged to form the United Methodist Church.

Arthur Warren presented the program on the history of Benson United Methodist Church. This was based on research done by Ralph and Nicki Delano.

After the history presentation the meeting was adjourned to look at the Archives Room before lunch. During lunch a presentation was made on church music history.

Respectfully submitted,
John Mitchell
Secretary

From Para Drake’s article in the July 2006 issue of the NC Conference Christian Advocate
The Annual Meeting of the Southeastern Jurisdictional Historical Society, June 27-30, 2006, was hosted by the NC Conference Commission on Archives and History and The NC Conference United Methodist Historical Society at Duke Divinity School on the 80th Anniversary of the School. The theme for our gathering was “The Garber Era” honoring the leadership of Bishop Paul Neff Garber. Bishop Garber served our Conference from February 1951 to July 1968. The first years of his ministry as Bishop of the NC Conference took place while the Conference was known as the Richmond Area until the Bishop’s residence was located in Raleigh, NC in 1964 and it became the Raleigh Area. Paul Neff Garber was born at New Market, VA, July 27, 1899. He was ordained in the WNC Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1926 and became the first professor of church history at the new School of Religion at Duke University that year. He became the Dean of the School in 1941 and was elected Bishop in 1944 serving the Geneva Area until coming to the Richmond Area. He married Orina Winfred Kidd, August 21, 1927 and upon her death July 18, 1959, married Nina Fontana of Geneva, Switzerland on April 27, 1983. He died in Geneva on December 19, 1972.

The excitement began as friends from around the Southeast began to arrive for our annual meeting. We are very much like a family reunion. It is a joy to renew our friendships and meet those who are attending for the first time. We had about 80 participants at this year’s gathering. Mrs. Thelma Crowder, President of the SEJ Historical Society, welcomed everyone and shared opening remarks for the week’s activities at the opening session of our meeting. Dr. Richard Heitzenrater presented the keynote address about the life of Bishop Garber that was enlightening and challenging for our future ministry. Dean Gregory Jones shared the morning devotion on Wednesday. Dr. Tim Pyatt, Archivist at Duke University, shared about the history of the University and the Divinity School and led a tour in the afternoon of the Divinity School, Duke Chapel and other attractions nearby. Dr. Stephen C. Compton, Director of Congregational Development, shared about the Growth of our Conference through new churches and the support of the Ten Dollar Club. Mr. Bill Billings, Methodist College historian and director of Monarch Press, shared about the influence of Bishop Garber on the building of two new colleges in our Conference, Methodist College in Fayetteville and North Carolina Wesleyan in Rocky Mount in 1956 with continued support for Louisburg College in Louisburg. Dr. Charles Michael Smith provided wonderful musical entertainment with his singing and accompaniment by Mr. David Witt, Pianist and Mrs. Gayla Collins, Flutist after our evening meal. Dr. Bill Simpson, Rocky Mount District Superintendent, shared information about the history of the United Methodist Building and the beginnings of the Raleigh area. He commented on the strong Clergy and Lay leadership in the Conference when the Bishop resided in Richmond. Mr. Tom Walden, Conference Lay Speaking Ministry and Lay Witness Missions, shared about the beginnings of the “no silent pulpit” in Lent and the outgrowth of our present Lay Speaking program. He learned from experience that he had better have a sermon ready, since he never knew when he might be called on to speak in the early days of this ministry. Mrs. Robbie Barrett, Ministerial Relations Office, shared about her experience with the Youth Caravan overseas in rebuilding areas following World War II and helping to improve relationships through their work.

Our meals and refreshments were catered by Bon Vivant Catering in the Divinity School Refectory and were enjoyed by everyone on Tuesday and Wednesday. We had our usual ice cream social on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings with Resurrection UMC Durham, NC providing it on Wednesday.

Our bus tour on Thursday was exceptional with Mrs. Beverly S. Pierpoint, Director of Annual Giving and Special Projects, The United Methodist Retirement Homes, Inc., sharing about the history of the Retirement Homes. Lunch was at Camp Rockfish with Mr. Wray Stephens, Director of Camping ministry, sharing about our camping history. The Prospect UMC shared refreshments and attractions nearby. Dr. Stephen Stephens, Director of Camping ministry, sharing about our camping history. The Prospect UMC shared refreshments and attractions nearby.

On Friday morning we concluded the business of the Society with the introduction of Rev. Robert J. Williams, General Secretary of the General Commission on Archives and History. Our closing worship with a Memorial Service with Communion was led by Bishop Alfred Wesley Gwin, resident Bishop of the Raleigh Area. The Memorial Service is to recognize those from around the Jurisdiction who have contributed to the work of historical preservation and education and have died in the past two years.

It is with grateful hearts that we thank everyone who made this event possible and shared with us in the experience. We look forward to next year’s meeting as we go to Washington, D. C., July 20-22, 2007, to have the Sixth Historical Convocation, Historical Society UMC and SEJ Historical Society Annual Meeting in celebration of the 300th Birthday of Charles Wesley.
